

Who receives a 1099 copy? :

- 1099-Misc Copy A is from you, the filer, to the IRS. This copy is never printed. Instead, WageFiling.com e-files this copy to the IRS. Then we send you a confirmation.
- 1099 Form 1096 is a paper transmittal and is not required because we file Copy A electronically.
- 1099-Misc Copy 1 is from you to the state tax department, when required by the state. Send them all in one envelope to the state, when required. See link to see details here. <https://sovos.com/blog/trr/latest-updates-state-direct-reporting-requirements-for-form-1099-nec/>
- 1099-Misc Copy B is from you to the recipient for his records. The "Instructions to Recipient" are automatically printed on this copy by WageFiling.com.
- 1099-Misc Copy 2 is from you to the recipient, for the recipient's state tax return (when required), or as an extra copy for the recipient.
- 1099-Misc Copy C is your copy, for your records.

WAGE FILING.COM
prepare. e-file. done.